

Political Pointers

While Police Chief Barlow is offering rewards, he has not yet offered a reward for information as to the gambling houses that are open in Salt Lake, neither has he offered a reward for each saloon that carries a slot machine.

Up to the hour of going to press, that $4,000 collected from the saloonmen and cigar stores of Salt Lake has not yet been distributed among the workers. That money is tied up in the bank, and the former member in good standing of the inner circle does not see fit to let it get into the hands of the American city committee.

Chairman Darmer was asked yesterday by a casual seeker for information, whether he really wanted to see Bransford elected. "No, I don't care a —" and at that moment Darmer caught himself and closed the conversation. Darmer had a good notion to tell the truth, and spoiled it.

The proprietor of a Main street gambling house is boasting that he was on business with Sam Barlow, and that for that reason he does not need to pay tribute to any member of the police department. He said for Barlow, that the gambler was at one time a butcher, and he may have been Barlow's partner in that business. No one believes that Barlow was once a gambler, any more than they believe that he is the chief of the Salt Lake police force at the present time.

Police Chief Barlow is so suspicious of that "sure-thing" men that through the police station to see their friend Sheets, that he has removed all the valuables of the department that are stealable to a safety deposit vault.

A woman who earns a competency in a manner prohibited by the city ordinances, was found weeping the other night after a conference with a prominent police official. It appears that the official told her that if she did not hand him $20 within twenty-four hours he would look her up and have her given a vagrancy sentence. A prominent saloonman interfered in her behalf, and she was allowed to go unmolested until she could get the money.

About six months ago, Mayor Bransford and President A. J. Davis of the city council were determined to remove George Sheets from city employ. Sheets went to his friend, Tom Kearns, and while the arguments used are unknown, it is a fact that Sheets was not removed, and if Kearns has any influence with the next mayor of Salt Lake, Sheets will not be removed, and will continue to exemplify "third degree" methods in Salt Lake.

Tom Matthews, who was Belle London's agent here while the stockade was running, is now on the pay roll at American headquarters, and is engaged in rounding up the underworld to support Mayor Bransford's re-election.

A well known sporting man of the lower type attempted to play in the gambling game at the Cliff house. He was refused permission, the reason given that he had sent bad checks about once before when he was in the game. The gambler denied it, and went quickly to the police station to get the Cliff house game closed down. Sheets told the complainant that he would do nothing, and threatened him with ejection from Salt Lake if he said anything about it.

That $1,500 a week that Chairman Darmer is receiving for running the campaign is worrying some of the boys. The word has gone out that cash is scarce, and that the boys will have to content themselves with their share of the plunder that will be available after the election is won. Darmer was handed that story, too, but he did not fall for it, and he is getting the cash regularly.

Citizens of the west side who have been trying to induce the American city administration to give them a square deal in public improvements for the last two years without success, are after the scalp of Street Commissioner Jake Raleigh with a vengeance. The chief object of their dislike, however, is A. N. Jarvis, one of Raleigh's assistants, who engineered the double-cross in the Second ward convention of the American party which prevented the nomination of a west side man on the American councilman ticket. It was Jarvis who in the convention turned the trick that put C. E. Allen out of the race and named E. G. O'Donnell and C. H. Reed as council candidates, after Pickering had withdrawn on promise of being taken care of with a city job.

Parley Jensen will be one of the speakers at the big Republican rally of Scandinavians at Odeon hall next Monday evening. Other speakers will be announced tomorrow. The Scandinavians of Salt Lake will be an important factor in the election of James D. Murdoch, and they are already most active in supporting the Republican ticket.

The Republican rally at the Salt Lake theatre tomorrow night is expected to be the biggest meeting of the campaign, and the theatre will be filled to its capacity. Arrangements have been made to provide seats for at least 750 prominent citizens on the platform. Senator George Sutherland will speak on the issues of the city campaign, and James D. Murdoch, Republican candidate for mayor, and John M. Knight, candidate for the city council from the Fifth precinct, will speak.

The third complete canvass of the city under the direction of the Republican city committee was completed yesterday, and Frank M. Eldredge, in charge of the canvasses, will have tabulated reports ready today for submission to the city chairman. This last canvass indicates strongly the trend of sentiment toward James D. Murdoch for mayor, and in comparison with the former canvasses the changes from the "doubtful" to the "Murdoch" column are counted by the hundreds.

One little meeting yesterday, which included only five men, is regarded as having special significance in the city campaign. These business men have been classed as "independent voters" in municipal campaigns, but this year they have contributed financial as well as moral support to the Republican campaign. This was the result of their meeting yesterday when a probation officer took them on a tour of Commercial street and Plum alley and showed them the results of the election of the city committee. This last canvass indicates strongly the trend of sentiment toward James D. Murdoch for mayor, and in comparison with the former canvasses the changes from the "doubtful" to the "Murdoch" column are counted by the hundreds.

Joseph S. Hyde was formally appointed candidate for council for the short term on the Republican ticket for the First precinct last night at a meeting of the district chairman of the precinct held at Republican city headquarters.

Fusion on the councilman ticket in the Third precinct was effected last night at a meeting of the Republican precinct committee. John Holley, Democrat, and present councilman from the Third, was named for the long term, and C. M. Lees, Republican, was named for the short term.

The cartoon in the Sheets morning organ giving the idea that the Salt Lake police department is so vigilant that the thugs give the city a wide berth is one of the funny things of the campaign. Second South street, from State to West Temple, is filled nightly with "sure thing" men and underworld denizens of all sorts. Half a dozen holoops are reported nightly and given out by the police, and no one knows how many there are that are suppressed by the police. If there is any city in the country to which the thugs turn a longing eye just now it is Salt Lake.

There are about eighty-five gambling games running nightly in Salt Lake. The majority of these are paying tribute to somebody in the American party administration. Of course, some of this money is being used in the campaign, but the greater part of it is private graft, and few people need any hint as to where it is going.

The game in the basement of the Log Cabin saloon, which was so spectacularly closed some months ago by members of the inner circle of the American party, is running again, and is doing well. The winnings are not so good there as they are in the Wilson hotel, where one man left the game $1,500 ahead on Monday morning about 9 o'clock, after sitting in the game since Sunday night at 10 o'clock.

George Sheets, "the efficient and faithful officer of the law," to quote his persona grata, certainly shone in the McWhirter case. He was acting as an "efficient and faithful officer of the law" at that time, however, or was it in his private capacity that he did business with the McWhirters?

The Taft Republican drum corps took in the Fourth and Fifth precincts last night, and incidentally, the musicians were entertained informally at the home of J. A. Edwards, candidate for city recorder.

J. E. Darmer, chairman of the American party city committee, has discovered that in order to keep the $500 a day contribution of the gamblers of Salt Lake in circulation he will have to engage six trombone players as an addition to the Kearns drum corps. If the trombone players can be found they will be added to the organization next Monday.

The water meter steal was one of the grafts that was stopped by Councilman James D. Murdoch, who is the Republican candidate for mayor of Salt Lake. That was one of the most flagrant attempts ever made in Salt Lake to get a little easy money, and that it did not succeed is due to the honesty of Councilman Murdoch.

Chairman Darmer would be almost happy if it were not for Sandy Fowler. As the standard bearer in the campaign, Mayor Bransford gave orders that Fowler, as his general factotum, should be allowed everything at headquarters. However, that has made no difference in the chilly atmosphere that envelops headquarters when Sandy shows up.

The Kearns hope for another two million dollar bond issue is not the best of news for the taxpayers. The laborer explanation of the organ that Kearns has so much money that his share of it would not bother him is not reassuring.

to those who have not so much money and do not have the same strange hold upon it when campaign times come around.

The intercepting sewer is one of the monuments of the American party administration. Apologies for the monumental blunder have almost become serial in form, and the end does not seem to be even predicted.

The man who hit Billy Patterson is to be arrested in a few days and given the third degree until he admits that George Sheets was much abused when he was arrested in connection with the McWhirter case. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one arrest, even if the guilty man be caught, does not prove that the Salt Lake police department is intercepting the denizens of the underworld.

The man who was arrested in the "villain" game at the Wellington hotel was released when he gave the money back. Before he left Salt Lake he said that he paid $100 for protection when he came here, and that accounts for the fact that he escaped a penitentiary sentence.

ALL FIGURE OUT BIG MAJORITIES

Party Managers in New York Campaign Reach the Claiming Stage.

New York, Oct. 21.—With New York's municipal election only twelve days distant, the campaign today reached the claiming stage. The party managers for the city are now making their claims for the various offices.

These were the "probabilities" estimated by campaign managers for the city candidates for mayor: Mayor (Republican) by 40,000, Gaylor (Democrat) by 35,000, Gaylor (Independent) by 30,000.

The confidence expressed by all the campaign managers was pointed out by many observers tonight as a further indication of the non-partisan character of the support upon which the candidates depend and of the breaking down to a great extent of the old party lines.

There were more than a hundred meetings in various parts of New York tonight. Justice Gaylor toured the East side by automobile, visiting the precincts of the city, and making a personal canvass of the city.

Bannard was heard in Staten Island. William M. Trine, who is attacking the election of Hearst, spoke in a dozen small meetings. He told his hearers that he was entirely satisfied with the progress of the campaign.

Instructors from Washington to proceed with the hearing.

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—Instructions to proceed with the hearing of the case of the state anti-monopoly law, started by the criminal branch of the supreme court today. Deputy Attorney General Roger Clark declared that "everything short of physical violence which the diabolical ingenuity of man could invent was employed by this corporation to build up a monopoly of the ice business."

He said the American ice company had repeatedly refused to harvest ice in its Maine fields in order to create a scarcity of ice and to raise prices. The idea for the organization was conceived by a man originated with Charles W. Morse.

Deputy Attorney General Osborne read the judgment of the supreme court in the case of the company in New Jersey, wherein the capitalization was fixed at $200,000. The hall is large enough to accommodate 200 guests. The service is wonderfully beautiful; most of the food is served in gold vessels.

John R. Bennett, one of the incorporators, was called as the first witness. He admitted that out of the $200,000 capitalization of the American ice company, $200,000 had been exchanged for shares for stock in the Knickerbocker and Consolidated ice companies and about $300,000 for other ice properties.

Why Bishop Played Marbles. (Washington Post.) "Many interesting stories are told of the late Bishop Wilmer of Alabama, who was noted for his wit and his ready repartee. A story which is considered characteristic of the man was told by a Virginia minister at a private dinner in Richmond not so very long ago.

"When Bishop Wilmer was rector of the little Protestant Episcopal church at Upperville, Va.," said he, "he was much worried by the non-attendance at service on Sunday of the members of the community. On inquiry he found that instead of going to church they were in the habit of playing marbles for stakes—marbles in those days, it must be remembered, was a much more serious game than it is now, occupying much the same position in the realm of sports as do billiards and pool in these days.

"Bishop Wilmer, then a person not well known, determined to break up this practice. He himself had been an expert marble player in his youth, and he summoned the young men engaged in a game. The good bishop asked several questions of the players, and finally challenged the lot to play him for 'keeps.' They readily consented.

Much to their astonishment, the young minister won steadily, and soon they had to go to the stores to replenish their stock. Toward the close of the afternoon Mr. Wilmer's triumph was complete in the town of Upperville. Putting his 'winnings' in a bag, he remarked, as he walked away: 'Now, gentlemen, since you can't play marbles tomorrow, I hope to see you all at church.' 'And he did.'"

BOMB OUTRAGE. Munich, Oct. 21.—A bomb was exploded in the street here early today. The pavement was torn up and neighboring buildings were considerably damaged. A person was injured. There is no explanation.

THE UNFAIR CRITIC. (Evening Wisconsin.) Mrs. Humphrey Ward, whose novel, based on American divorce, is being read with interest by divorced Americans, worked hard in the collection of facts during her visit last year.

She worked hard, said a New York lawyer, "but she didn't work fairly. She didn't come here to look for truth, you know, but to look for sensational things that would make interesting reading in a novel. Mrs. Humphrey Ward came to America prejudiced."

"I know she was prejudiced. A remark of hers proved it. At a dinner before her research began, she said to me: 'I wish, though, that the stop thinking that no wardrobe is completed without a divorce suit.'"

Quick climatic changes try strong constitutions and cause, among other evils, nasal catarrh, a troublesome and offensive disease. Sneezing, snuffling, and difficult breathing, and the foul discharge into the throat, are ended by Ely's Cream Balm. This honest remedy contains no cocaine, mercury, nor other harmful ingredient. The worst cases yield to treatment in a short time.

All druggists, 60c. If you prefer to use an atomizer, ask for Liquid Cream Balm. It has all the good qualities of the solid form of this remedy and may be used in the most convenient way. No cocaine to breed a dreadful habit. No mercury to dry out the secretion. Price 75c, with spraying tube. All druggists, or mailed by Ely Bros., 66 Warren street, New York.

MOSCOW

The One Time Capital of Russia

THE great Moscow is an old city, great effort and large sums of money have been spent making the place modern and attractive. Everywhere are the houses surrounded with trees and gardens brilliant in color and laid out with exquisite care.

That the city is old is shown because it is irregular and without plans, but there are new sights at every turn. The city is inclosed by a number of old gates. Passing under an ancient gate the Red Square is reached, the great square of many centuries, as it is called.

The Red Square passes through the Holy Gate to the platform of the Kremlin. This part of the town is as old as it is interesting. It is more picturesque because of the large square and round towers surmounted by spires. The walls on one side are skirted by the river. A splendid effect in color is had by the gold and silver domes shimmering against the brilliant green, blue and red of the sky.

A magnificent view is had from Sparrow Hill; the ascent is made by a steep and tortuous road. From this point the river looks like a silver belt girding the city. On the opposite side the wooded hills run steeply down to the water.

The general view of Moscow is brilliant and grand. The many colored roofs give richness to the picture. From the middle rises the fortress of the Kremlin, the many churches send up a forest of dome-capped towers. The Kremlin speaks of many centuries, as it was founded 800 years ago. The principal place is the Kitty Gorod in front of the Spasskaya Gate. It is entered by a vaulted road, where is seen a handsome and world-famous clock tower, to have been cast in 1500. A great quantity of gold and silver were used in the making, the height from the summit to the base is sixteen and one-half feet, while the greatest thickness is twenty-two inches.

Another interesting feature is the Museum of the Imperial Treasures. The interior is wonderfully light and graceful. In the first hall are resplendent banners and suits of ancient armor.

Prosecution of American Ice Company in the Courts of New York.

New York, Oct. 21.—Prosecution of the American ice company, the largest dealer in ice in the world, for alleged violation of the state anti-monopoly law, started by the criminal branch of the supreme court today. Deputy Attorney General Roger Clark declared that "everything short of physical violence which the diabolical ingenuity of man could invent was employed by this corporation to build up a monopoly of the ice business."

He said the American ice company had repeatedly refused to harvest ice in its Maine fields in order to create a scarcity of ice and to raise prices. The idea for the organization was conceived by a man originated with Charles W. Morse.

Deputy Attorney General Osborne read the judgment of the supreme court in the case of the company in New Jersey, wherein the capitalization was fixed at $200,000. The hall is large enough to accommodate 200 guests. The service is wonderfully beautiful; most of the food is served in gold vessels.

Not far off is the Tower of Ivan Veliki, which serves as a campanile for three cathedrals and has thirty-four bells. The largest is sixty-five feet in circumference.

The city is ornamented profusely with statues and triumphal arches; the most splendid is the Arch of Triumph. This is made of marble and is surmounted by a beautifully carved statue of Liberty, while the arch is ornamented with handsome bas-reliefs.

Moscow has a number of attractive suburbs. One of these is Ostankino; it is well laid out and has many handsome buildings. This place is especially well known for the splendid churches made of stone and marble.

Moscow, besides having a great deal that is beautiful, is interesting because the old and new are in an unusual almost grotesque, fashion. They are not apart as in Paris, London and many other European capitals. They jog hand in hand as unevenly as the streets on which they stand.

ROMANCE. (Chicago News.) Chee, guy! Dis world is jest th' peachy place! A bloke blow by a little while ago. A'goin' somewhere with a frosty face. He had his grip an' tings, dat's how I know.

An' dis guy sez, "My satchel, boy!" like jest like he t'ought he'd like to climb my frame. An' w'en I jumped to git it from him— I bumps square into jest th' sweetest dame!

Say, guy! Th' way dat lady's fixin' to fiew! An' dat guy picks 'em up an' bows for fair. But, she sez, "Pardon, Mister James. An' looks a-past him like he wasn't there."

Say! Dat poor guy backs up against the an' stands an' looks until she's out o' sight. I t'ought fer sure dat he was goin' to bawl. His face wuz twistin' so an' got so white.

For dat dame raised her head an' walked away. Jest like th' quens in melerdrummer do. She had 'em skinned a city block—but, say! I seen her gulpin' kind o' funny, too.

An' den dat guy sez, "What's dat letter, you?" I seen dat I had went an' copped A letter writ to Mister James Carew. Dat fussy dame had clean fergot she dropped.

Dat guy went to it like a streak—dat's all. He tore th' end an' read as quick as scat: "I'm sorry, Jim. Don't go today. Please call."

At fust he didn't know where he wuz at. An' den he laughs an' slips me out two bones. An' say! You ought to see dat felly's face. It's fer oysters down to Skinny Sloan's.

Chee, guy! Dis world is jest th' peachy place! "Society's Favorite!" Served winter and summer. Ask for them.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR. EBER W. HALL, Undertaker, Embalmer, 144 So. W. Temple Both phones 1393

J. P. GARDNER The Clothier HAS MOVED Directly across the street from the old stand.

There are many anecdotes of actors and playwrights in the lately published recollections of Sir Scott and Lady Byron. Some of these, of course, originate with the always amusing H. J. Byron. To a provincial landlady he once bitterly complained of having been attacked by fleas. "Fleas, sir!" was the retort. "I am sure there is not a single flea in my house."

"I am sure of it, too," was Byron's rejoinder; "they are all married and have large families."

AILMENTS OF MEN HAPPILY OVERCOME

SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following prescription will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

First get fifty cents' worth of compound fluid balmwort in a one-ounce package, and three ounces syrup asaraparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand two hours; then add a quart of water, and take one teaspoonful after each meal, and no one who has given it, has failed to obtain relief, followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poles and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to well, bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home remedy is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

Constipation and Appendicitis

The Latter Usually Caused By The Former, Which, In Turn, Has Its Origin In Intestinal Indigestion.

Chronic constipation is a disease which is about as prevalent as dyspepsia and indigestion. Nearly every man who, occasionally, but there are millions of people who endure it habitually, and who are accustomed to resort to the use of laxatives and cathartics.

Many people seemed to have developed perfect mania for taking pills, and instead of trying to cure the real cause of the disease, and removing it by appropriate treatment, they are content to continue the reckless use of laxatives, aperients, drastic cathartics and violent purgatives, until finally inflammation of the bowels occurs, which reaches the appendix, and the result is appendicitis.

In investigating and tracing the causative factors of this disease, it has been found by physicians that the majority of men frequently suffer from indigestion, a long-standing gastro-intestinal indigestion.

The idea that appendicitis is brought on by foreign bodies, such as seeds, etc., becoming lodged in the appendix, is an exploded theory. It is not a disease, but a condition, and the most prolific cause of this dread disease, while the constipation itself is previous to the attack, is indigestion, or, in other words, dyspepsia—the inability to digest starches and the relation between cause and effect is readily seen.

The absurdity of attempting to cure constipation by the use of physic should be apparent to every man. Laxatives and powerful purgatives will never cure a disease of this sort, and those who make frequent use of them will find, sooner or later, set up an inflammatory condition of the intestinal system.

The chronic constipation will never be annoyed with chronic constipation, and when this trouble does exist, instead of using cathartics, and pills, liquid laxatives, candy cathartics, etc., use a remedy which will cure the gastro-intestinal indigestion, and you will find that the constipation no longer bothers you, and with its removal, the risk of developing appendicitis will be reduced to the minimum.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have been the means of curing numerous cases of constipation, by first curing the intestinal indigestion. They digest every kind of food, a single grain being capable of digesting 5,000 grains of albumen, and in addition to pepsin and other powerful digestives, they contain a large quantity of malted starch into sugar, and readily cures amyloseous dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, constipation, and, in fact, indigestion of any kind, don't run the risk of getting appendicitis, but strike at the root of the trouble—the original cause—by using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will quickly rid you of all functional disorders of the alimentary tract.

Secure a box of this digestive remedy from your druggist for 50c and send your name and address to the F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for a free sample package.

THROAT MISERY

"Hymene! did me a world of good when I had chronic laryngitis; in fact effected a cure after all the best specialists had given me up as a bad job. I tried Hymene! the same as I had tried hundreds of other things that people or doctors would recommend. They all failed except Hymene!, and this effected a cure that has been lasting. All my troubles happened 12 years ago, and I had ought to be ashamed not to have written you before. At first I waited to see if the cure was permanent or not, and when you realize that for five winters before I used Hymene! that I could not speak above a whisper and sometimes not at all, you can judge why I waited with a good deal of anxiety for time to tell if I was really cured or not."—E. A. Lindsey, 145 South street, Boston, Mass., April 1, 1909.

Breathe Hymene! in through the inhaler that comes with a $1.00 outfit, and this highly healing and antiseptic vaporized air will promptly relieve and permanently cure catarrh and all ordinary diseases of the nose and bronchial tubes. It gives great relief to consumptives. Sold by leading dealers everywhere, and in Salt Lake City by F. C. Schramm.
